THE BRIDE OF A DREAM.

We take the following account of a singular dream, and its results, from the Western Christian Advocate.

Mr. B. has been twice married, but was left a second time a widower with six daughters and a son. Having been persuaded to again enter upon marital life by a minister of the circuit in which he resided, a time was appointed by the rev'd gentleman to introduce him to the lady whom he had recommended, and Mr. B. accordingly started upon the journey. Before the time arrived, however, Mr. B. was admonished in a dream that the woman so favorably spoken of by the minister was not the one he ought to marry, and he was conducted in a vision to the residence of the young lady who would be a suitable helpmate, and whom Providence designed for him. The distance was sixty miles, and he had only travelled twenty miles in that direction. Yet the map of the whole road was laid before his mind, and the way he should go so distinctly marked in his dream, that he seemed perfectly familiar with all the road. He dreamed the distance, the name of the young woman, and the name of her stepfather, Col. Vickers, the appearance of the house in which he lived, how it was painted; that it was situated near a river, with a warehouse near at hand. He dreamed, also, that there were five young ladies belonging to the same family, and had the one selected for him so accurately described in his dream, that he could easily distinguish her from the other four.

In the morning he awoke and thought nothing of his vision, except as an ordinary but rather remarkable dream. The next night he had precisely the same vision repeated, and the same things presented to his mind in a still more vivid manner. Mr. B. then began to think that there might be some indication of Providence in his dream; and all that day he made it the subject of sincere and ardent prayer, that God would direct him in the way he should go in a matter so BONE DUST, of best quality, in barrels SUP. PHOSPHATE OF LIME, grave, and involving so much interest to himself and his motherless children. That night he had the vision repeated the third time, and he determined then to follow the directions furnished him, and fully test the circumstances of the dream by a practical examination, and see if the results would be developed as he dreamed them. He immediately sent a note to the preacher, informing him that he had changed his mind, and must decline meeting him at the time appointed. Mr. B. started in the direction indicated by his vision, and after passing the twenty miles he was acquainted with, his dream was his only guide. He, however, had no difficulty: for the map of the road was so vividly impressed upon his mind, that he was able to distinguish his road from all others. The gentleman whose name was given him in his dream he had never seen or heard of. He knew the farm as soon as he saw it. The house and everything about it appeared precisely as had been presented in his vision. He alighted from his horse and entered the beautiful house. The personal appearance of the young lady was so vividly impressed on his mind by the vision thrice repeated that he readily recognized her in company of the four others, whom he found in the same family. He soon ascertained the name of the young woman, and found it to be Sarah T., according to his dream. This young lady had determined, and had often said, she would never marry a widower. Miss T. said the very moment she first saw Mr. B. she felt a strange tremor pass over her whole system. She had a vivid impression that he was a widower, and that he had come to see her. She afterwards confessed that a sudden emotion of affection for him arose in her heart as soon as she came into his presence. Mr. B. obtained the pleasure of an interview with her that evening, and was successful in securing her consent to visit her again, and address her on the subject of marriage. He, however, did not tell her his dream till she had engaged to become his wife. After a courtship of a few months, they were happily married, and lived together for more than fifty years. Mr. B. died the 25th of March, 1842, and Mrs. B. lived till the 7th of April, 1847. For sixty years, perhaps, they were both distinguished and useful members of the Methodist Episcopal chuach.

GUANO No. 1. HAVE engaged in the Manipulation of GU ANOS, and am now ready to supply the Far-ters and Planters of the United States with an article which I consider superior to anything of the kind which has yet been produced, having an unusual amount I believe, of the valuable ingredients in this article. During my editorship of the "American Farmer," with which until within a few months, I have been connected for 25 years, I have most emphatically urged upon the Farmers and Planters that the mixture of the Ammoniacal Guano (Peruvian) with the Phosphatic (Mexican, Columbian, &c.,) was the best and cheapest applieation to most crops they could apply. general views upon this subject, I refer to the pages of the American Farmer; and also, to my cir cular just issued (and which will be forwarded to desiring it) in which this view is ably sus tained by Dr. Bickell, Analytical Chemist, of this
